Dorothy Dix Talks

THE LAGGARD BRIDEGROOM

By DOROTHY DIX, the World's Highest Paid Woman Writer.

A young woman of my acquaintance has been engaged to a man for the past five years. The girl is all that any man could ask for in a wife. She is good looking, intelligent, thrifty and domestic and asks nothing of fate but the privilege of making a home for the man she loves and devoting herself to his well being.

The man makes a fine salary and there is no reason why the couple should not get married and start building their nest except that the man doesn't want to. He refuses to name the wedding day and the constant anxiety to which she is subjected, and the sickness of hope deferred are making the girl nervous, peevish and every day less desirable to the man.

This is not an uncommon situation and it always leaves the onlooker wondering how any man can be such a cad as to treat a woman so, or how any woman can be fool enough to stand for it.

There are many men who consider that they have a perfect right to victimize women in love affairs. Such a man has no hesitation in using all his arts and wiles to win a woman's heart and then he plays with it as a cat does with a mouse. To his mind a woman's affections are a cushion designed by benevolent Providence as a buffer to stand between him and the world.

In order that he may have an option on this good thing, he becomes engaged to the girl and puts a ring on her finger to brand her as belonging to him. This gives him a monopoly of her time, her devotion, her thoughts and her interests and warns other men off the premises.

It also gives him an agreeable place in which to spend his evenings, numerous free meals at the girl's family table, a companion with whom he can dispense with many formalities and that priceless boon a listener who never tires of hearing him sing the saga of his own achievements, and a sympathizer who is ready to rejoice with him over his good luck and weep with him over his bad.

All of this comes to the man as the price of a few vague and indefinite promises, and a small hoop of gold with an off colored diamond, and its a rock bottom bargain at the price. For the man has no intention of marrying as long as he can side step the altar.

He's too cowardly to take upon himself the responsibilities of a family. He is afraid to give hostages to fortune, and enter upon a contract that means for most men a life sentence at hard labor.

He is too selfish to want to marry. He wants to spend the money he makes upon personal luxuries instead of in supporting a wife and children. An automobile looks better to him than a perambulator, and bachelor quarters in the club appeal to him more than a bungalow in Homeville that you are paying for on the installment plan.

He loves his liberty too well to want to marry. He likes his little games with the boys and the knowledge that when he gets home at 3 P. M. nobody will be waiting up for him with a curtain lecture she has been rehearsing for the past six or seven hours. He likes to flirt and flutter about the newest buds in the rose bud garden of girls with no jealous wife keeping a green eye upon him. Above all, he loves the knowledge that he can do exactly as he pleases without having to argue the matter with a lady who feels that a marriage certificate gives a wife police power over her husband.

Therefore the man is in no hurry to slip his neck in the matrimonial noose. The long engagement gives him the very flower of a woman's love without his having to pay her bills, so why should he marry? And he generally doesn't until he develops the rheumatism, and needs somebody to coddle and nurse him.

That's the point of view of the selfish man who would marry and won't, and who, to gratify his own pleasure, ties a woman to him through a long engagement. What one cannot understand is why any woman with intelligence enough to be allowed out alone, without a keeper, permits herself to be sacrificed in this way to the man's colossal vanity and egotism.

She must know, if she ever has the courage to look facts in the face, that she is bound to loose out in the end. For one thing, such a man is capable of loving only one person, and that is himself, and marriage with a selfish, self-centered man brings happiness to no woman.

Another thing, she must realize that the man who was not keen to marry her in the first glow of their romance, will be less and less anxious to take her for keeps as time goes by and love's young dream loses its glamor, and becomes a commonplace, every day habit. If men grow indifferent all too soon to the women they were mad to marry, what chance has the wife of holding the affection of the husband who was tired of her before their wedding day?

Nor can any woman be crazy enough to believe that there is any chance of happiness for her in marrying a man whom she had to nag into marrying her, or whom she dragged to the altar by the promises that he had made to her, and that she lacked the courage to break.

The laggard lover is a despicable creature, but the woman who permits a man to lag, and who wastes her youth and the treasure of her love on such a one, has no little dignity, so little self respect and holds herself so cheaply that she deserves the fate she gets.

Love is a game where a man should put up or shut up. The man who asks a girl to marry him and doesn't name the wedding day is a quitter and she is a wise virgin who calls time on him.

PARIS DECREES VEILS FOR SPRING

Of course, New York is following suit—and the veils are a riot. To simplify the matter somewhat most of the veils are named. There is "Wendy" for instance. Like her namesake in "Peter Pan," she is on good terms with eternal youth and seems to impart the air of it to her wearers. She has an octagonal mesh with a heavier thread running in a scraggy fashion over it, and a border formed of chenille dots.

DOGS BEING POISONED NEAR EAST END OF 25TH STREET

Editor Standard: Knowing your uniform courtesy and humane views in all matters which will call for the welfare of our citizens of all walks in life, we, as bona fide taxpayers of a section of this, our beautiful city, residing on East Twenty-fifth street, between Harrison and Van Buren avenues, call your attention to the fact that we are almost daily witnessing the vandal acts of some miscreant element secretly at work in our midst, setting poison cunningly for the destruction of valuable dogs owned by citizens of repute, and who annually comply with the law by paying all required taxation on the animals thus being wantonly slaughtered.

We ask you, sir, to give space to this our grievance in your valuable columns in order that redress may be obtained, and the miscreants guilty of this nefarious business brought to justice. The cruel and cunning methods being so systematically planned and executed are proof sufficient that we have in our midst an element which should be weeded out.

(Signed) COMMITTEE.

OMAHA BOOSTERS SEE OGDEN, WHILE ENTERTAINED BY LOCAL CLUB AND LIVESTOCK MEN

A delegation of stockmen, numbering 24, arrived from Omaha yesterday afternoon and was met by representatives of the local stock market, the visitors being known as the "Omaha Boosters."

Ogden business men and the local stock representatives have been looking forward to the visit of the boosters for several weeks. The object of the trip is for the eastern men, who are big dealers in livestock, to get better acquainted with the patrons of their market.

A banquet was tendered at 6:30 o'clock at the Weber club, which was attended by a number of prominent Ogden business men.

The boosters were welcomed by W. H. Wattle, president of the Ogden Stock Yards company, who expressed the opinion that anything that would prove beneficial to Omaha would prove equally beneficial to Ogden. Mr. Wattle urged that Omaha and Ogden co-operate in maintaining and upbuilding the livestock industry in each place, and he commented upon the locations of both cities as natural livestock centers.

An Editor's Views.
Bruce McCulloch, editor of the Drovers Journal-Stockman and who has visited Ogden several times during the past few years, noted that considerable industrial and business growth had manifested itself since his last visit a year or two ago. In connection with the question of cooperation he used an illustration of the war, mentioning the manner in which the sons of rich and poor alike received and promptly obeyed the same orders.

An expert opinion of packing and stock conditions in general was then given by Simon S. Jensen of the Ogden Packing & Provision company, who told how stock and hog raising had developed in Utah and Idaho since 1909.

A. P. Bigelow was the next speaker and in addition to welcoming the men to the city, expressed pleasure in meeting the delegation.
Just why markets fluctuated was then explained by R. D. McManus, a representative of Armour & Co. He said that big business, in days gone by, had not troubled themselves in keeping the public informed as to what they were doing and how they were doing it. This fact gave rise to erroneous conclusions concerning the packing industry. This is being eliminated, said Mr. McManus, as people are now being shown by the big packing corporations that while their profits amount to sums of six and seven figures, there is several hundreds of millions of dollars behind these enterprises and the profits are the legitimate revenue of such an investment.

Following the banquet the livestock men went to the Eagle's gymnasium where they saw the fight between Al Young and Bobby Moore. After the fight the Omaha men were again the guests of the Weber club and Publicity bureau.

A schedule was planned for the boosters today, the first move being a visit to the stockyards, the Ogden Packing plant and other industrial concerns in order to give them an idea of what is being done here in the livestock business. Among the concerns the boosters specially desired to visit were the plants of the Ogden Packing and Provision company and the Hansen Livestock & Feeding company. At the Hansen feeding yards the boosters were shown through the mill, where the balanced ration is manufactured, and also through the yards where the large numbers of hogs, cattle and sheep are quickly fattened for market.
At noon the boosters were taken to the Ogden Golf and Country club for dinner. They are to leave Ogden this afternoon for Laramie, Wyoming, where they will visit before returning to Omaha.

The delegation includes Carl A. Smith, traffic manager U. S. Yard company; Ed P. Baker, Bowles L. S. Co.; H. J. Oswald, Wood-Oswald Co.; E. J. Emerson, assistant cashier Stock Yards National bank; Lloyd Sullivan, Wood Bros.; Win. Davidson, Bowles L. S. Co.; C. F. C. Co.; Inter-state L. S. Co.; James Bush, Clay Robinson & Co.; Chris Horn, Donahue-Randall Co.; Frank Randall, Rosenbaum Co. Co.; J. Ocie Aylsworth, Great Western Co. Co.; Wm. Lynnam, Tagg Bros. & Morehead Co.; Martie O'Toole, Brandels & Co.; F. V. Peck, Burgess-Nash Co.; Alvin Johnson, cashier Live Stock National bank; Bruce McCulloch, editor Drovers Journal-Stockman; R. D. McManus, Armour & Co.; Claude Talbot, chief brand inspector; Ralph Jennings, manager Fremont stock yards; Charles Cayle, W. R. Smith & Co.; and John W. Taylor.

Are Searching for Minnie C. Taylor To Give Her Money

The government has money for Minnie Charlotte Taylor and is asking the home service chapter of the Red Cross to assist in finding the woman. Letters from the war risk bureau at Washington through the general delivery here have failed to be delivered to the woman and have been returned. In the letters were enclosed allotments and checks of allowance.
If she will call at the office of the Red Cross on the fifth floor of the First National bank building, the Red Cross will assist her in getting her allowances and allotments.

PUNISHED BY JUDGE FOR DISTURBING A PICNIC PARTY

Five boys who interrupted a picnic party of children in Lester park and stole some of their picnic food two days ago were before the juvenile court this morning. Questioning of the boys developed that they were playing a prank, believing it great sport to frighten the small children and to take some of the edibles. The food taken consisted of a bottle of pickles and a cake.

The boys were given a severe lecture and four were given probation for three months and the other one for six months, all having their liberties considerably restricted and ordered to report once a week to the court and to show their rate cards in school. Two of the boys were 16 years of age, and one was somewhat defiant, which brought the most severe penalty from the court.

BILLY SUNDAY PRAISED BY ONE WHO HAS KNOWN HIM

Billy Sunday, who comes to Ogden tomorrow, is well known by Dr. Ray Palmer, pastor of the First Baptist church of Ogden.

"Billy Sunday is the greatest living Evangelist," says Rev. Palmer. "His story has never produced a man who has had more marvelous success in winning all classes to God. I say all classes, the high and low, the sick and poor, the learned and the ignorant."

"Sunday is a learned man, a Bible scholar, a historian, a philosopher, and a powerful logician; he can use some slang; he is also as eloquent as Talmage or Henry Ward Beecher. He is a combination of energy, heroism, sincerity, magnetism, fire and faith in God."

"Billy loves his fellow men. The mainspring of his soul is love. He is always doing good; helping somebody financially and otherwise. He is endorsed today by the leading ministers of America of nearly all denominations, both north and south. He is criticized. Any man who is any account always is."

"He has a wonderful helper in his talented, consecrated wife. I wish, in my heart, that Billy Sunday could hold a great sermon meeting in Ogden. This work would be of untold blessing to our community. The citizens of our city will be honoring themselves by hearing Dr. Wm. A. Sunday, Thursday at 5 p. m. at the Alhambra."

WORLD'S MARKETS

NEW YORK, April 23.—Ralls and equipments divided the hours at the stock opening of today's stock market, supplementing yesterday's gains by substantial fractions to two points. Secondary issues were again conspicuous, notably Texas and Pacific, Missouri, Kansas and Texas common and preferred. United States Steel's initial sale of 5,000 shares at par represented the slight setback which soon extended to a full point. The motor division and related specialties were in demand, Ajax Rubber rising 6 1/2 points. Shipings, leather and food and chemical shares were firm to strong, but oils were irregular.

The most reassuring feature of the extremely busy morning was the spirited recovery of United States Steel, which rose to 10 1/2, its highest quotation so far this year. Buying of steel was so extensive and urgent as to indicate nervousness among the shorts. Affiliated shares rose 1 to 2 points, motors and kindred issues enhanced their gains and equipments made further progress. Oils rallied and advances of 1 to 3 points marked the demand for miscellaneous issues. Meantime, the rise among low-priced rails continued on an impressive scale. Railroad bonds also strengthened.

Trading slackened at midday, the market going through a process of assimilation, but further changes were mainly upward. United States Steel followed steadily ahead. Industrial Alcohol jumped 6 points, shipings and metals were substantially higher and metal and food shares were 2 to 3 points over yesterday's close.

Profit-taking proved effective in the final hour. United States Steel and other leaders reacting 1 to 2 points. The closing was irregular.

On another enormous turnover today's stock market recorded further variable gains, steels, rails, equipments and coppers leading the movement. Sales approximated 3,600,000 shares.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 23.—Active buying and sharply higher prices in the grain market today resulted from wet weather and from new top record quotations on hogs. European political uncertainties tended also to strengthen bullish sentiment regarding corn. Besides, country offerings were only moderate. Opening prices, which ranged from 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 higher with July $1.58 1/2 to $1.59 1/2 and September $1.55 1/2 to $1.56 1/2, were followed by material further gains.

Oats ascended with corn. After opening 1/2 to 1 c up with July 70 1/2 to 71 c, the market continued to harden. Provisions took a decided upward swing, impelled by the strength of hogs and corn. Lard led the advance.

All deliveries of corn went above any previous quotations this season. On the bulge, profit-taking assumed large proportions, and served temporarily to check buyers somewhat. The close, however, was strong, 3 to 3 1/2 c net higher, with July $1.62 1/2 to $1.63 1/2 and September $1.59 1/2.

May lard touched $31.00, a new high level.

NORTH OGDEN NOTES

NORTH OGDEN, April 23.—North Ogden can just now rightfully claim the distinction as one of nature's real beauty spots, the farm lands generally seeded and clean and as beautiful as croquet grounds, interspersed here and there with plots of meadow green and large areas in orchards laden with bloom of various hues, forming a map of the most beautiful design.

Our soldier boys continue to arrive from overseas and other phases of army life and to resume their former positions in civilian life, the last thus highly favored being J. William Gibson, George A. Lyon and Isaac Campbell, and among others yet to return are Elden R. Dunbar, William L. Blaylock, Ray Daniels, Earl Chadwick, Joseph N. Blaylock, Arizona Marshall Robert E. Ellis, Harold Storey and Parley N. Reynolds.

Nathan J. Harris of the Ogden stake high council, Joseph R. Jeppson, stake superintendent of Sunday schools, and Miss Cora Kasius of the stake Sunday school board, were in attendance at the ward Sunday school conference last Sunday and contributed to the great success of the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Johnson are rejoicing over the advent of a second addition to their family, a boy born Tuesday afternoon. The mother was formerly Miss Adella Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Jones of this place.
